SHORT COURSE ENDS

CLASS IN VITALIZED AGRICULTURE FINISHES WORK.

PROF. HOLDEN PLEASED

State Superintendent Rural School Expresses Appreciation Publicity Given by Democrat- Forum.

One hundred teachers and county superintendents who have been in attendance at the short term course of vitalized agriculture, conducted by Prof. P. G. Holden at the Normal school this week, concluded their work at noon today and are leaving for their homes this afternoon. Night sessions on Wednesday and Thursday nights enabled Prof. Holden and his assistants to complete the work in advance of schedule.

Prof. Holden announced this morning that the class at Maryville was the largest of any of the classes held in the state, one having been held in every Normal school. Prof. Holden also expressed pleasure and gratification at the interest displayed in the work and the avaidity with which the teachers took hold of it. Preparations had been made for sixty teachers and superintendents, but 100 were on hand for the opening last Monday.

T. J. Walker, state superintendent of rural schools, who was one of the assistants, said the work of the schools being assigned to teach the new plan was being watched with interest all over the country. He paid a compliment to the Democrat-Forum for the intelligent manner in which the value of teaching vitalized agriculture had been presented and for the valuable publicity which had been given through its columns. Prof. Holden and his corps of assistants leave this evening for Kirksville, where a similar short course will be held for the teachers of that district.

Tomorrow afternoon, at a meeting with Superintendent Bert Cooper, assignments will be made of schools in Nodaway County that will take up the work the coming year.

'THE MAN FOR NOW'

DR. MEDBURY'S ADDRESS STIRRED TO THE DEPTHS.

WAR FROM NEW ANGLES

First Musical Number of Chatauqua Today With the Famous Bostonia Orchestra Band.

Human with the tenderest sympathies, forceful and able to impress his ideas, Dr. Charles S. Medbury, pastor of University Church, of Des Moines, Iowa, moved and thrilled a large audience at Chautauqua last night as has few other war speakers that have visited Maryville with his great address on "The Man for Now." Dr. Medbury's call into many fields of activities, on various government campaigns, work at army training camps and patriotic meetings, have uncovered a new mine of raw material in which the war, the men who are engaged in it, the spirit of America and the cause of world democracy, was presented from different angles and in a new light, cheering the hearts of his hearers to fresh courage and new effort. To outline or summarize his address of nearly two hours into lines of type would be the most futile thing in the world. It was a speech that forced its way into the heart and depths of human consciousness by its sheer weight and power. It bulged with information and power. No calculation is possible on the good that must be accomplished in any community when

With a large number of high-class race animals already entered for the coming fair meet, the races this year are going to prove a feature of the week's event and the management is leaving nothing undone to provide plenty of high class amusement for patrons.

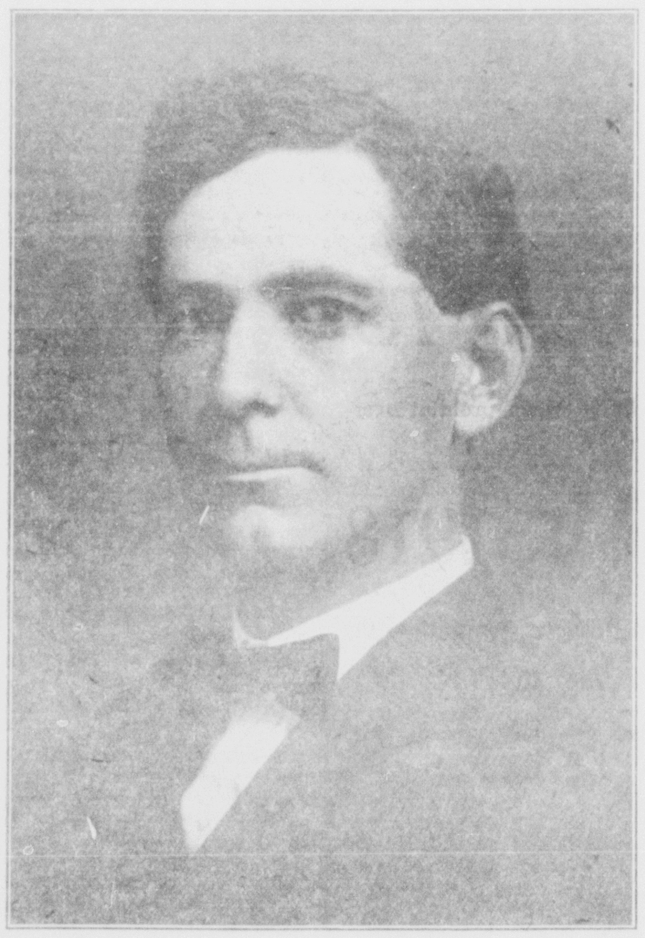
[POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT] [POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT]



In submitting my candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Prosecuting Attorney at the Primary to be held Tuesday, August 6, 1918, I do so with the sincere hope that it will meet a friendly welcome and receive a kind response. I have been unable to visit personally as many of the Democrats as I should like, because of the great expense of doing so, nevertheless I earnestly solicit your support in my contest. If I am rewarded with the office to which I aspire, I pledge to the people of this county a FAIR and FULL enforcement of the law without FEAR or FAVOR to any one on this earth. I sincerely and earnestly ask you to give me your support in ungrudging measure on next Tuesday, and urge all of my friends throughout the County to make a special effort to attend the Primary.

CHARLES F. McCAFFREY.

MR. VOTER, WHAT DO YOU THINK?

The decision of the democratic voters of this district next Tuesday will, in all probability, determine who is to represent this district in Congress for the next two years. There are two leading candidates, Hon. Chas. F. Booher, our present Congressman, and Hon. William E. Spratt of St. Joseph. Before you cast your ballot, here are a few facts worth thinking about:

We are in the midst of a war which has no equal in the history of the world. We have been bending every energy for more than a year to get our country on an efficient war basis. Practically everything else has been sidetracked by our Government and we have built up an organization, in this comparatively short time, upon which other nations look with wonder and amazement.

There is but little else before Congress. All other business is being set aside until after the war. We have 3,000,000 American boys now under arms and the War Department expects to have 5,000,000 by the first of January. They are the flower of our young manhood and as fine an army as was ever assembled on this earth. The whole thought of the administration at Washington now is how to secure an early victory and thus bring these boys home without unnecessary losses and with a guarantee that we may go our way in peace hereafter. We are as much interested in that effort and share that desire as deeply as does Woodrow Wilson and the American Congress.

The men who have stood by the President in the last Congress, who have worked with and counseled with him, are part of the machinery that has wrought this wonderful organization and co-operation among our people in so short a time. Congress has had to frame and pass new laws suited to the new conditions. It has had to provide for the organization and maintenance of a vast war machine. It has had to provide for the raising of funds for this tremendous enterprise.

All this has required continuous study, serious thought and great labor. This has not been a talking Congress; it has been a working Congress: It is not talk that is demanded now; it is action. The men who have been through all this, who have studied the innumerable questions that have arisen, who have worked in committees and counseled with each other, are the men who are needed to continue the work until it is finished. They know where mistakes have been made in the past and how to avoid them in future. What they have learned by experience does not have to be learned again. The President and his cabinet know the men who have helped them in this work and they know just where to find them. They do not know what is in the hearts of strangers.

It is not a question of the welfare of the candidates. Charley Booher or William E. Spratt can, either of them, get along whether elected to Congress or not. Our chief concern must be our country's welfare and that of our boys "over there."

There has been no charge lodged against Charley Booher. His Americanism is 100 per cent pure. His record is above criticism. His opponents agree that he has done his duty, that he has been faithful to every trust, and that he has worked and voted correctly and wisely. Why then, would they displace him? Simply and only because he has served several terms and because they want his place.

Would you turn out a man simply because he had learned, by study and hard work, the things which he now needs to know? Would you in a busy time, take out the good working parts of your machinery and experiment with changed and untried parts? Would you rock the boat needlessly while it is going through a swift current? Of course you wouldn't. Then, collect your thoughts a moment, drop your prejudices, forget personal ambitions, and vote as the changed conditions demand. The old Ship of State is going through angry and uncharted seas and it needs experienced seamen.

Mr. Spratt, Mr. Young or Mr. Anybody can learn the work in Congress as any bright boy, who applies himself, can graduate in school. But the boy cannot pass the final tests in school until he has learned the things he must know, neither can Mr. Spratt be worth a continental in Congress until he has learned the things that must be learned. The good soldier is a good soldier only after he has been trained and seasoned.

This is not the time to be bothered with a large primary class in Congress. It is not the time to be tinkering with the machinery where it is working smoothly. It is not the time to rock the boat. Let us hold fast that which is good and experiment after the war.

WILL HOLD EXHIBIT AT FAIR

Miss Bertha Beal, county chairman of the government training school for housewives, who has been in charge of a four months' course of instruction and demonstration on food conservation and canning, has been asked to hold an exhibit at the Nodaway County Fair in September.

This is a part of the government food conservation work, and is done in order to show the excellence of fruit and vegetables when handled by the best methods, and to encourage women to do more canning and drying.

The chairman of the work in each county is asked to give these exhibits at any large gatherings to be held this fall in their home county.

THE WEATHER

Generally fair tonight and Saturday; continued warm.

HURT IN AN AUTO ACCIDENT

Adrian Taylor, living near Skidmore, was badly hurt last night when the car he was riding in was ditched. Taylor, in company with Howard Masters and Willie Bagley, was driving to Burlington Junction, and they were near the town when the accident occurred.

Masters was driving and in attempting to pass another car, his car struck an abutment of a small culvert and the force of the jar whirled the car around and into the ditch. Young Taylor was badly cut and bruised, mainly about the head, face and arms. He was taken to the Wabash Hotel at Burlington Junction, and will remain there until he is able to be taken home.

DRYING EXPERT AT NORMAL

Miss Zella Wigent, a specialist in drying and canning, who is with Prof. P. G. Holden and his assistants, conducting the special course in vitalized agriculture at the Normal, was in charge of the classes yesterday afternoon and this morning.

The government has done much to encourage the drying of fruits and vegetables, for the reason that there is no waste, it is the most economical method for preserving the stuff, and it is easier transported, and it is a part of the instruction approved by the state board of education.

The course of instruction in vitalized agriculture closed this afternoon. This course, given at the Maryville Normal, has been more largely attended than those given at any other Normal school in the state. The word agriculture as used in reference to the course of study, does not mean simply farming and the subjects pertaining directly to farming, but also to anything pertaining to the life, welfare of the children and people of the community.

Sewing, canning, drying of vegetables and fruits are a part of the rural teacher's work now, and the fundamentals of these subjects are being taught from the fourth grade up. A splendid display of the work which the Nodaway County rural teachers expect to introduce into their schools this year, has been on exhibition this week at the Normal.

GERMANS ARE HARD PRESSED

FOCH'S COUNTER DRIVE IS THE TURNING POINT

The Americans Are Smashing Ahead Regardless of Heavy Rain, Inflicting Heavy Losses on the Enemy—Prisoners Now Number 35,000.

BULLETIN.

Paris, Aug. 2.—The capture of Ville-en-Tardenois is imminent and a slow retirement of the Germans to the Vesle river is also imminent, is predicted by competent military critics. This afternoon an advance, giving the allied artillery command of all roads leading to Soissons and Reims. Fismes, the big German supply base, Bazoches and Braisne, all important rail points, are being taken from the enemy by harassing fire.

Paris, Aug. 2.—The new allied advance, which began between the Aisne and the Marne rivers today, and which has continued ever since, has put the whole German front between Fere-en-Tardenois and Villers-en-Tardenois in peril and French, British and American troops are striking over a wide front along the western flank and the lower side of the German salient, gaining from one to more than three miles, and increasing the total number of German prisoners since the beginning of the counter drive, which started July 18, to about 35,000. That another immediate German retirement, perhaps all the way to the Vesle river line, is inevitable, is strongly indicated by the successful developments of the past twenty-four hours.

The situation along the whole western front is now satisfactory to the allies, it was authoritatively stated this afternoon. Foch's counter offensive is the turning point of the summer campaign and possibly of the war itself.

London, Aug. 2.—The most important allied advance since the German retreat started on the Marne was made when the French captured the Ourcq-Aisne water shed, it was learned this afternoon. The allies advanced to a maximum depth of three miles over a front of five miles, between Laplassiere and the Arcy wood. The French captured Gousancourts, while the French-British pushed their lines well down the northern slopes that dominate the valley of the Crise. Where the reserves of German infantry and field artillery were held the allied advance extended in a northeasterly direction, tightening the pocket south of the Aisne-Vesle line, through which the Germans are retiring, which must be held open if the whole German front is to be maintained. It is difficult to see how the Germans can avoid an early retirement to the Vesle river.

With the American Armies at the Marne, Aug. 2.—Despite a heavy downpour of rain, the Americans have continued their operations northward of Mouniere wood, pushing back the Germans. Fismes, the great German supply base on the Reims-Soissons railway, is in flames, air observers reported.

London, Aug. 2.—Artillery activity in the Somme valley is severe, and on the Picardy front it has also increased, the British war office reported today. During the night the British captured prisoners and machine guns in a raid north of Albert.

Paris, Aug. 2.—The French made further progress north of the Marne in the course of the night, the war office announced today.

DOCTOR URGED AN OPERATION

Baltimore, Md.—"Nearly four years I suffered from organic troubles, nervousness and headaches and every month would have to stay in bed most of the time. Treatments would relieve me for a time but my doctor was always urging me to have an operation. My sister asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before consenting to an operation. I took five bottles of it and it has completely cured me and my work is a pleasure. I tell all my friends who have any trouble of this kind what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me."—NELLIE B. BRITTINGHAM, 609 Calverton Rd., Baltimore, Md.

It is only natural for any woman to dread the thought of an operation. So many women have been restored to health by this famous remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, after an operation has been advised that it will pay any woman who suffers from such ailments to consider trying it before submitting to such a trying ordeal.

A CONVICT OUTING

81 WOMEN IN PENITENTIARY TO BE GIVEN PICNIC.

EMMA GOLDMAN THERE

"Tango Park" Prominent During the Major Regime, Has Lost Most of Its Prominence.

Jefferson City, Mo., Aug. 2.—A new regulation at the Missouri penitentiary gives the women convicts an outing. There were eighty-one of them Some of them have been in the female department of the penitentiary here for many years. They were all loaded in vehicles recently and taken to a little park owned by the state, and about one mile from the prison, where they were given the liberties of the park from morning until evening. The matron of the prison and women officers under her were present. Among the prisoners was Emma Goldman, noted female anarchist from New York, who is under sentence of two years from the Federal court there for preaching anarchy, and she will finally be deported to Russia, the country from whence she came when a little girl. Emma put in the day at the park knitting, save at meal times. She is blessed with a good appetite and looks the part.

Aggie Meyers, of Kansas City, doing a life term for helping to murder her husband, the smallest prisoner ever confined in the prison, enjoyed the outing after being held a close prisoner for some twelve years. She was once sentenced to be hanged, but Governor Hadley saved her with a commutation.

There is a bit of history connected with the little park now used by the female convicts when they are given an outing. Its creation out of rough ground was a work of the Major administration, and it was used as a pleasure resort by the "Four Hundred" of this city. A fine dancing pavilion was put up at considerable expense to the state, and there, during the administration of Governor Major, society folks were in the habit of dancing to their hearts' content. A convict band furnished the music in spite of the protests of the local unions in this city, and Lord Barrington, doing a life term in the penitentiary for the murder of James McCann, in St. Louis, in 1904, looked after the ladies' wraps while the merrymakers were having a good time.

Warden D. C. McClung, of the penitentiary, in honor of himself, named the spot "McClung Park." Disrespectful people here called it "Tango Park."

With the going of the Major administration the glories of the park subsided. Women convicts are now to enjoy the park on certain occasions.

HIGH RATES FOR SCANT MEALS

Cafe, Restaurant and Boarding House Keepers Warned of Taking Advantage of Food Rules.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Jefferson City, Mo., Aug. 2.—State Food and Drug Commissioner E. L. Barnhouse, testifying before the state tax commission in the expenditure inquiry, said that in his investigations incident to food regulation, he finds that cafe, restaurant and boarding house keepers are taking advantage of both federal and state restrictions to charge a high rate for scant meals.

He cited one incident where a boarding house keeper denied guests meat in any form on the ground that the federal government had forbidden its use. This particular offender was warned that there were no such restrictions and that a repetition of the offense would lead to trouble with both federal and state authorities.

Commissioner Barnhouse told the commission that there will be a deficiency of at least $7,000 in his department for salaries and expenses of his six inspectors. The department is undertaking a vast amount of work in colaboration with the federal food department, and it is of such a character that the work cannot be stopped.

State Labor Commissioner William H. Lewis and State Treasurer George H. Middelkamp, both testified that there will be no deficiency in the appropriations for their respective departments for the current biennial period.

such a master as Dr. Medbury presents the masterful discussion and appeal he has created.

Dr. Medbury's life has been already crowned with magnificent successes. For the past dozen years he has been pastor of University Church, Des Moines, Iowa, where he preaches to more people than any other minister in the Central West. He is chaplain of Drake University and an enthusiastic advocate of the best things of the educational life of our day.

Dr. Medbury was a great favorite in the camps. He was one of the boys. He knows the soldier and the soldier's life. He served in the Spanish-American war, was a member of the National Guard for five years, and served for a long period as chaplain of a regiment. Both his son and his son-in-law are officers with the Expeditionary Forces.

Knight MacGregor, Scotch baritone, in a program of song and anecdote, won a lasting place with both afternoon and evening audiences. Dressed in Highlander costume, with a brogue as rich and liquid as that of Harry Lauder, and with a marvelous r-r-r-r-r-r-o-ll to his r's, he was repeatedly called back for more. His repertoire was of ample range and among his numbers were: "Bonnie Sweet Bessie," "March of the Cameron Men," "Mother o' Mine," "Mandalay," "The Toreador Song," all in masterful fashion and with telling effect. He was equally at home in "The Long Trail," "Rose of My Heart," "Tommy Lad," and even the catchy caprices of the latest song hits.

In the afternoon Hon. B. F. McDonald, called the "moonshine" man, gave an interesting lecture on the real "moonshine" grandmammy used to speak of. He operated on the mental and spiritual deformities of the race, cutting off a leg, or sewing on an ear, as it were, with the deftness of a Mayo.

The first musical number of the week comes this evening when Belle Yeaton Renfrew and her Bostonia Orchestra Band, in a repertoire that will satisfy the tastes of all classes of concert patrons, will be heard. Mrs. Renfrew is the only great woman orchestra leader, and her twenty years' work as a conductor of the Bostonias has given her an established place among the master conductors of the world. In addition to her prowess as a conductor, Belle Yeaton Renfrew is regarded as the leading woman trombone player in the world.

The Bostonias will appear both afternoon and evening.

This morning Frank Weller Allen, in "Personality Plus," presented a serious study of human problems, unfolding a multitude of facts and observations that represent the best thought of the times on phenomena that affect human character.

This afternoon Frank Cole, just returned from a six months' visit to France, is giving his message to parents and friends of the boys over there, describing life in the trenches, how the boys prepare for a battle, and many other things, first-hand information that is so much sought.

Saturday's program includes in the morning Paul Lee Ellersbe, chief examiner for the Denver office of the United States naturalization service, in a lecture on the immigration problem in America. His address is replete with picturesque, humorous and pathetic incidents relative to his personal experiences in the work.

In the afternoon the Williams Jubilee Singers, real Southern songsters. Members of this company are worthy representatives of the best element of their race and their success has been an inspiration to hundreds of others. Rush University, Knoxville College Fisk University and Oberlin College are represented by members of this sterling organization. They are educated and cultured people.

Your feet will tap time with the rollicking plantation melodies and you will marvel at the sweetness and power of such camp meeting tunes as "It's Me" and "Every Time I Feel the Spirit," sung with that spirit of religious fervor and primitive pathos which is peculiar to the American Negro.

The Jubilee Singers will preface the lecture of Dr. James S. Montgomery, the eloquent pastor of the Calvary Methodist Church, Washington, D. C., "One-Sided People."

Dr. Montgomery is just now at the zenith of his power as a thinker and orator. A life of hard work, coupled with training in the leading educational institutions and rounded out by years of service in some of the most distinguished pulpits of Methodism, has resulted in giving him a sympathy and insight on human nature which color all of his platform utterances. His personality and magnetism make him a speaker of rare power. He enriches his addresses with word pictures of entrancing beauty.

The Jubilee Singers will give the entire program in the evening.

Price Advance

For over a year now we have succeeded in maintaining our old prices, principally by virtue of a big increase in sales, which reduced our overhead cost.

[POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT] [POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT]

Senator Wilfley for Senator

Maryville, Mo., July 30, 1918.

To the Democratic Voters of Nodaway County:

We, the undersigned citizens of Nodaway County, respectfully make this appeal to our fellow Democrats in behalf of Senator X. P. Wilfley of St. Louis, who is a candidate for the Democratic nomination as United Senator, to succeed himself, at the approaching Primary Election on Tuesday, August 6.

Some of us knew Senator Wilfley in his youth; some of us know of his early struggles against poverty and physical infirmity, and of his final brilliant success as a lawyer. By his own efforts and ability, without wealth or influence he rose to a position of such prominence that Governor Gardner felt impelled to appoint him as United States Senator on the basis of merit alone, following the death of Senator Stone. The appointment was not "political" because, as has been charged, Senator Wilfley had only a slight acquaintance in the western part of the state and had never held an elective political office. This, however, was true of President Wilson when he was elected governor of New Jersey, and of Governor Gardner when he was elected governor of Missouri—neither had held office before.

We regard Senator Wilfley as an able, clean man and a patriotic American. We think the fact that he already holds the office by appointment in a regular legal way entitles him to some consideration in his desire to fill out the unexpired term of Senator Stone especially in view of his loyal support of President Wilson on all war legislation. We consider unfair and unfounded the attacks until recently made upon him in a portion of the public press which chiefly emanate from two St. Louis newspapers and have been printed or otherwise circulated elsewhere.

Senator Wilfley is the cousin of our fellow Nodaway Countian, George L. Wilfley, who has lived here for thirty years, and is now absent from the state on account of illness in his family. This, in a sense, makes Senator Wilfley "kin" to Northwest Missouri, and in our judgment, gives him some claim to the preference of our voters.

For all the reasons we have ventured to address this open letter to our fellow Democrats with the hope that it will be received in the kindly spirit intended.

Respectfully,

TO-DAY

Editorial Notes by Arthur Brisbane

This country teaches young men to think for themselves—in the public schools, where all are equal; in the struggle for success, where Schwab, the day laborer who thinks, goes to the top, and Thaw, the millionaire son who doesn't think, goes to the insane asylum.

This individual THINKING is reflected in the cables that tell about the fighting.

For instance, Fred Brown and Oscar Willcoxon, young American sergeants, were taken prisoners after their last cartridge was fired. They were taken to the rear to be questioned, under guard of a German officer and a soldier.

An hour later they walked into the American lines, bringing prisoners with them. On the walk back toward the German rear they had knocked down their guards, taking their revolvers, and made their jailers prisoners.

And his fighting is based on his THINKING.

The American boy as an individual fights as did the great Napoleon, using armies for his tools.

—o—

Napoleon, like the young men from all over this country, fighting in the woods, shell holes and along the river banks of France, acted upon the moment's quick thought. This made it hard for an enemy with plenty of discipline but little thought.

—o—

Napoleon crossed the Alps in winter with an army. "Don't praise me," said he. "Winter is the best time. There are no snow slides. I deserve credit only for not believing fools who said it couldn't be done."

—o—

Two young Americans captured by Germans were put in a canvas boat to be rowed across the Marne to the German camp. They were thinking while sitting in the boat and did not like the German camp idea.

The ice was broken, the fleeing army fell in and was drowned.

American soldiers in the fighting of two days ago found themselves scattered in the woods and entirely outnumbered. Under such conditions Prussian soldiers, with no one to command them, surrender. The Americans in groups of two or three went on fighting, their motto being, as one of them put it, to "Fight while the fighting is good."

—o—

An American machine gunner, all alone, arranged his gun to cover a line of advancing Germans. Just then part of his right hand was shot away. The German column changed its direction. He was not able to change the position of his gun with only one hand. He fired his automatic revolver with his left, "guiding the German column back to the line of his machine gun, which he turned loose with telling effect."

—o—

Napoleon knew how to make the most of his numbers. When a mere boy he took the French army into Italy and against Austria. He was always doing things which the experienced Austrian generals said "were not war."

The Austrian command put half of its force on one side of a river, half on the other, "to be sure to meet Napoleon." They met him. He beat one-half of the Austrian army, then crossed the river and beat the other half.

—o—

"Circumstances—I make circumstances!" said Napoleon.

The thinking American soldiers TAKE circumstances as they find them, and make them suit their purpose.

They fight better in scattered groups than in crowds.

Napoleon knew that the individual, if given the chance, could do his own planning. He made a lawyer's son King of Sweden—the family still rules there. He told his men that each had a marshal's baton in his knapsack. It was for the soldier to produce it.

—o—

The average American in the khaki of a private has the thinking mind of a pretty good general in his head.

Put ten thousand Americans opposite ten thousand Prussians. On the Prussian side you have ONE man thinking and commanding, nine thousand nine hundred and ninety-nine obeying, without thought.

On the American side you have ten thousand thinking for themsedves AND OBEYING.

—o—

That is the secret of the news that the cables bring from Europe.

The Prussians are brave, strong, wonderfully disciplined and ready, like other brave men, to die if need be.

But scattered, the Prussians are lost, and surrender automatically.

Whereas, the American, finding himself alone, says: "It is up to me—I am the general now."

Food, money, economy—all will HELP win the war. But THINKING WILL WIN IT.

And that is bad news for Prussia.

Some changes are to be made in the plan of organization next year based upon three terms of sixteen weeks each. The appointments of the faculty will also be made at this time. The summer enrollment is 532, which is about 100 less than last year. Cabbage and Patriotism.

To eat cabbage is not plebeian, it is patriotic. Cabbage is grown in back yards in all parts of the United States, and if it is made an important part of the vegetable diet it replaces shipped-in foods which require transportation space.

The United States Food Administration advises the use of home-grown vegetables, not only as a matter of saving shipping space, but as a saving of food which cannot be sent abroad. The following recipes may add to the list of usual ways of preparing cabbage:

Victory Cabbage.

Slice cabbage and soak in cold water. Put one quart of cabbage in a stewpan with two tablespoonsful of butter or butter substitute, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one tablespoonful of finely chopped onion, few gratings of nutmeg, and a few grains of cayenne. Cover and cook until cabbage is tender. Add two tablespoonsful of vinegar and cook five minutes.

Cold Slaw.

Select a small, heavy cabbage, take off outside leaves, and cut in quarters. Slice very thinly with a sharp knife. Soak in cold water until crisp, drain, dry between towels, and mix with cream salad dressing.

Alvie Cox, of Maitland, has purchased an 80-acre tract five miles northwest of Maryville, from George W. Aley, the purchase price being $12,800—$160 an acre. Mr. Aley will give possession March 1, next year.

THROWS POLLEN OVER BEES

Flop! and away go the little stamens of the mountain laurel and throw pollen over the bee which alights upon them. The naturalist sees here one of the most remarkable devices in all nature for compelling an insect to carry pollen. The lover of nature sees in the mountain laurel one of the most beautiful of the common woodland flowers, says Edward Bigelow in "Boys' Life."

The corolla is saucer-shaped, with ten little pits near the edge, and lightly caught in each of these little pits is the anther at the end of the elastic filament. This natural thing seems to grow in an unnatural manner, but do you know of any other plant that actually grows in distorted or strained position, or puts its own self in an uncomfortable and strained position from which it is glad to be released when the first insect comes along and sets it loose?

The whole mechanism is like a hair trigger. It is so carefully adjusted that even a slight jar will sometimes set it loose. Shaking an entire bush releases great numbers of these filaments, and flop, flop, flop they leap out of the pits and the anthers throw their pollen everywhere. The bee which visits the mountain laurel must feel that the times are prosperous, since he is showered with golden pollen which he carries to the next flower to fertilize the seeds.

LANGAUGE ASCRIBED TO FISH

There is a belief among fishermen that a herring, when caught, articulates a sound similar to the word "cheese." This sound is caused by an escape of air from the air bladder, or a movement of the gills. Fishermen, indeed, frequently state that the herrings "sneeze," just as Aristotle once said that gurnards "grunt."

The gurnard was known to the Greeks as "lyros" and "coccyx," apparently from the noise it was said to make.

Many fish have various forms of utterance attributed to them. On the Norfolk Broads, one often hears it said that an old jack pike has barked like a dog, and the same is said of the conger eel.

Red-finned herrings, called "loaders" or "kings and queens," are sometimes caught; they are regarded as an omen of a successful fishing. One of them is then taken out of the nets very carefully, prevented from touching anything made of wood, and passed round the scudding poles as many times as the fishermen desire to get lasts of herrings at the new haul.

How the Dutch Lost New York.

The first step toward making New York an English colony was taken 250 years ago, when Charles II granted to his brother, the duke of York, a large territory in America, to be called, in honor of the proprietor, New York. This included the Dutch settlement of New Amsterdam and the "colonie" of New Netherland, with Col. Richard Nicolls in command, to be deputy governor.

The Dutch settlers decided that it was useless to argue the case with the English invaders, "who were six times their number," and in the autumn of 1664 Fort Amsterdam and Fort Orange were surrendered. The name of New Amsterdam was changed to New York and that of Fort Orange to Albany. Governor Stuyvesant swore allegiance to Charles II, but soon returned to Holland. New Amsterdam, founded over three centuries ago, had at the time of the English conquest a population of 1,500, while the total population of the province was about 10,000.

Just One Inch of Rain.

When the weather bureau reports that an inch of rain has fallen, it means that the amount of water that descended from the sky in that particular shower would have covered the surrounding territory to a depth of one inch if none of it had run off or soaked into the ground.

It means that on one acre of ground enough water to fill more than 600 barrels of 45 gallons each has fallen. That quantity of water weighs more than 110 tons. If the rainstorm covered 1,000 acres, which would be a very small shower indeed, 114,000 tons of water would fall from the clouds.

Rainstorms frequently cover whole states and often two or three or five inches of water fall in one storm. A single widespread and heavy storm might result in 100,000,000,000 tons of water.

OBITUARY.

Ira Alvin Early, the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. John Early, was born August 26, 1885, near Half Rock, Mercer County, Mo., and entered into life at the home of his parents, Skidmore, Mo., July 26, 1918, aged 32 years and 11 months.

From Mercer County he, with his parents, moved to Atchison County, and about ten years ago removed to Holt, and later to Nodaway County. His parents are living, also four brothers and five sisters, as follows: Claude, Lincoln, Neb.; Mrs. F. Shawver, Albany, Mo.; Mrs. Maude Funderburg, of this county; while Ollie, Lela, Katherine, James, Howard and Harry live at home.

Deceased was a harnessmaker by trade, but had not been robust for many months. Last May, following the measles, he was stricken with a form of tuberculosis which finally caused his death. About a year ago, in Modamin, Iowa, he confessed his faith in Christ, and in the church for which his Master died, our brother lived the last months of his life on this earth. He was also a member of the Knights and Ladies of Security.

This is the second time death has invaded the home of Brother and Sister Early, they having lost a son about seven years ago, and their many friends in this sad hour, sorrow with them. Ira was of quiet disposition, but seemed happiest when he saw morality and justice prevailing. Another of our young men has answered the call of the grim reaper, while thousands are facing death for us on foreign soil that the principles taught in the Word of God may continue to live in the hearts of men.

The funeral services were held in the Christian Church at Skidmore, Mo., Sunday, July 28, at 11 o'clock, in charge of Elds. Harlan and Moore. The body was buried in the Mascelle Cemetery.
